London, May 3, 10:35 p. m.—According to the official statements of both Berlin and Vienna, the German and Austrian armies have achieved a notable victory in West Galicia, smashing the entire Russian center along a front of many miles, or, as Berlin roughly puts it, across the whole western strip of Galicia from near the Hungarian border to the point where the river Dunajec joins the Vistula, which is right at the frontier of Poland.

Though the eight thousand prisoners whom the Teutonic allies say they have taken does not compare with the number which some of Field Marshal von Hindenburg's rushes netted him in the north, the achievement, if subsequent reports bear it out, will mean at least temporary check to the Russian forces which have been hammering their way westward since the fall of Przemyśl.

Berlin is celebrating the victory to-night as is the custom there, though it is admitted that the flags have been flown before full details are to hand. England and France make no claims to any gains in the west, the British contenting themselves with saying that the German attack on the scarred hill No. 60 in Flanders have been beaten back, but the British are pushing forward to the northwest of Ypres and toward St. Julien village, which they captured after the attack following the first extensive use of gas, but which they were forced to yield under counter attacks.

In the fighting in the Baltic provinces also Berlin finds cause to rejoice. Rejecting the Russian statement that it is only a sporadic cavalry raid, Berlin wireless comment received tonight says it seriously threatens the Russian right and the fact that troops could be moved so far northeast before they encountered resistance is considered a reflection on the Russian intelligence system.

So far as claims go, it was an Austro-German day, a number of vessels, neutral and otherwise, fell a victim to German submarines, Norway being a particularly heavy loser.

If the Austro-German contentions relative to the Russian situation are correct, in the opinion of some of the English military writers, it will mean that the whole Russian campaign in the Carpathians is seriously affected, making extremely precarious the position of the Russian troops pressing down the southern slopes toward the plains of Hungary.

The line between the Vistula and the Hungarian frontier was about 40 miles east of Cracow. The Austro-Germans have been defending it stubbornly ever since the beginning of the Carpathian campaign. The British comment is somewhat reserved pending the Petrograd version of the operations.

Derby Favors Conscription.
Liverpool, May 3.—Lord Derby, whose opinion carries a degree of weight in England on account of his long connection with governmental and military affairs, gave an indication, while addressing a recruiting meeting here today, that he was in favor of conscription.

"I want to see the service of every man in this country under 55 years at the disposal of the state, to be used as the state may think best," he said. "I believe that if the men were told they had to go, nine-tenths of them would go willingly."

Efforts to Save German Crew.
London, May 3, 7:50 p. m.—The British admiralty in a statement issued this evening says that after the naval action in the North sea on Saturday afternoon when the British destroyer Recruit and two German torpedo boats were sunk, strenuous efforts were made to rescue the German sailors. Lieut. Hartnoll going in to the water himself to save a German. In consequence, two officers and

Washington, May 3.—Pending an official investigation of the circumstances of the wrecking of the American steamer Gulfight in the English channel, the United States government will defer diplomatic representations as well as any pronouncement of policy.

Two messages were received today from American Consul Stephens at Plymouth, England, reporting that the Gulfight was torpedoed off the Scilly Islands Saturday and that her captain died of heart failure and two members of the crew were drowned. Secretary Bryan called attention to the fact that the source of his authority was not given by Consul Stephens.

Mr. Bryan said he would ask for a thorough and complete report from the American consul and would direct Ambassador Girard at Berlin to make similar inquiry of the German government for such facts as it might have on the subject.

Officials were careful not to take for granted the truth of reports that a German torpedo struck the Gulfight. Should the investigation bear out the dispatches claiming that a German submarine made the attack, the United States probably will demand an indemnity sufficient to cover the losses incurred by the ship and compensation to the families of the victims. It is thought probable that an expression of formal regret also will be requested.

While the seriousness of the attack upon the Gulfight was a matter of discussion and speculation in official quarters generally today, the belief was held in high official quarters that the German government, if responsible, would not seek to justify the act, but would promptly agree to make amends.

President Wilson, on his return from Williamstown, communicated with Secretary Bryan and the state department officials, who immediately began an investigation of the law pertaining to the case. Their unanimous opinion was that from the reports thus far received there was no excuse for the attack on the vessel, for even if she had been carrying contraband, the ship should have been visited and searched and her crew transferred to a place of safety before the cargo could be confiscated.

On the face of the news dispatches, officials admit that the attack is a serious matter, but they intend that no hasty action shall be taken.

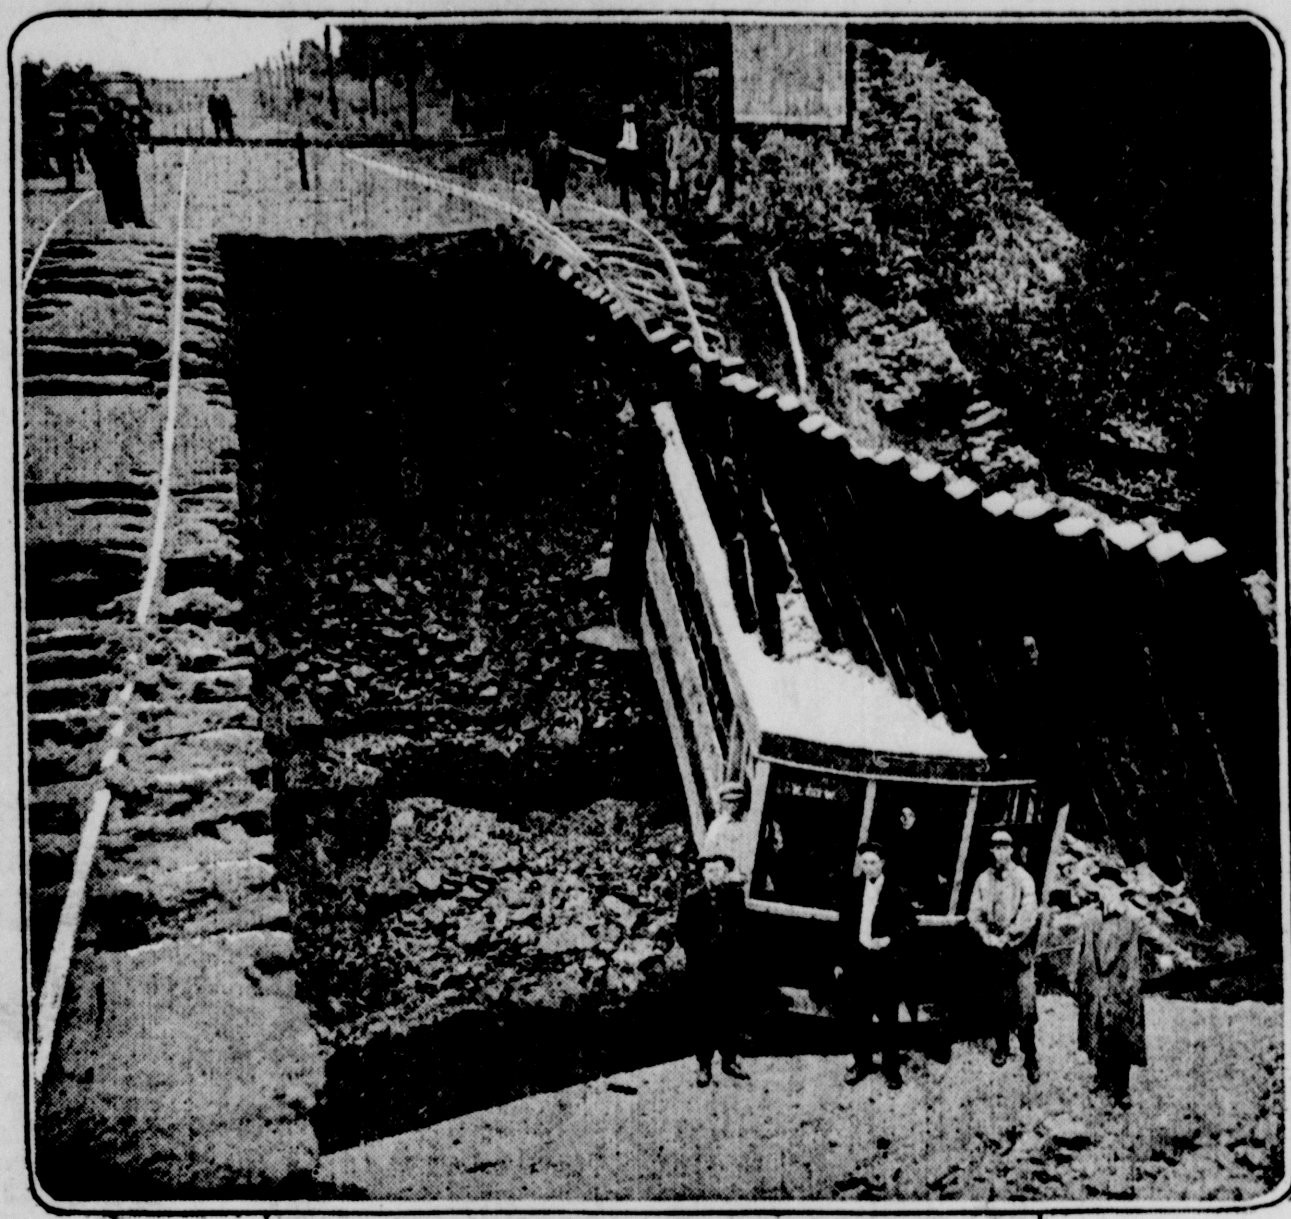

Secretary Bryan said that a thorough inquiry would be made, but that before official reports were received the Washington government would make no comment.

Should another day pass without information from American officials abroad, they probably will be instructed to get in touch with the remote localities where the Gulfight and her crew were taken. Officials assume, however, that inasmuch as the information concerning the attack came from London first, Consul General Skinner has already telegraphed his subordinate consular agent for reports.

Chapaneta from Texas.
New York, May 3.—The two Americans in addition to Captain Gunther who lost their lives when the American steamer Gulfight was torpedoed off the Scilly Islands, were Charles C. Short of Chicago, the wireless operator, and Eugene Chapaneta of Port Arthur, Tex., a seaman, according to a cablegram received here today by the Gulf Refining company, owners of the vessel.

The message, a brief one, was signed by First Officer Ralph Smith. It said that Capt. Alfred Gunther, whose home is in Bayonne, N. J., died of heart disease, and that Short and Chapaneta were lost. These were the two men, it is believed, reported to Austin, Texas, May 3.—This city bore the brunt of the spring floods. In the accompanying illustration is shown a trolley car at the bottom of a culvert. Twenty-seven persons perished seeking escape from the rushing waters.

St. L. and S. F. Held Responsible for Payment $1,200,000

St. Louis, May 3.—A report holding the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad responsible for the payment of $1,200,000 bonds of the Cape Girardeau & Northern Railroad company was filed in the federal district court here today by Thomas Pantier, special master, who heard evidence in the case.

The Cape Girardeau line was bonded at $2,500,000. The special master recommended that the Frisco railroad pay off the bonds that have passed into the hands of innocent purchasers and thus become holders of those bonds. Receivers of the Frisco had denied the validity of the bond obligation, claiming that the Frisco executive committee took over the property of the Cape Girardeau line without the consent of the stockholders.

If the federal district court approves the report of the special master, provision for taking care of the bonds of the Cape Girardeau line will be considered in any reorganization plan.

Brewers Tradesmen Criticise Action of David Lloyd George

London, May 3, 7:30 p. m.—The Allied Brewers' Tradesmen association, composed of those who supply machinery and other materials to brewers, adopted resolutions at a meeting here today bitterly condemning the plan of David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, for restricting the liquor trade. The resolutions say Mr. Lloyd-George's plan is designed to satisfy only the extreme prohibition faction and "thus means the ruin of the industry which we will protest with every means in our power."

Advertisers Do Not Control Papers, Says Dallas News Mgr.

Columbia, Mo., May 3.—The program of Journalism week, an annual affair conducted by the school of Journalism of the University of Missouri, was begun here today. Editorials, editorials and workers from all parts of the country began to assemble here this morning. George B. Dealy, Dallas manager of the Dallas News, in an address tonight defined the good newspaper as being life a good neighbor, "honest, courageous, virtuous and friendly," as contrasted with a bad neighbor, "vindictive, spying, gossip and malicious."

Christian Churches Meeting at Dallas

Dallas, May 3.—The annual meeting of delegates from the Christian churches in Texas was held here today. Several hundred delegates were in attendance. The meeting will be in session until Thursday. Prominent ministers from the Christian churches of the state will attend. Wednesday night there will be a banquet for men. Covers will be laid for one thousand.

Two More Bodies Found.
Austin, May 3.—Two more bodies of victims of the recent Austin flood were found today, one in the Colorado river near the Montopolis bridge and the other 300 miles or more down stream, near Columbus, Texas.

FLOOD DEATH LIST NOW NUMBERS 41

JOE HUNTER, MEXICAN, DROWNS NEAR SMITHVILLE, TEXAS.

Brazos Is Falling—Arkansas Floods Put Cities Without Gas.

Houston, May 3.—News has been received here of the drowning of Joe Hunter, a Mexican, as the result of floods in the vicinity of Smithville Saturday. His death boosts the total death toll from flood and lightning in Texas during the past two weeks to forty-one known dead. This figure is based on the estimate of twenty-six drowned at Austin, of which twenty-one bodies have been recovered.

With a fall of 30 inches, registered in the Brazos river at Rosenberg and slight falls at other points in that section, the flood situation remained Monday practically unchanged. The stage was 45.5 feet. A slow fall for the next two days is expected.

Shortly after noon Monday traffic on the Southern Pacific between Rosenberg and Houston was resumed and at night trains were operating both east and west. The Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe and the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass are using the Southern Pacific tracks.

At Richmond a slight fall was registered. The high banks of the river are washed considerably at this point.

Arkansas Floods.
Little Rock, Ark., May 3.—The flood wave of Red river in southwestern Arkansas is tonight subsiding. Gas company officials held out the hope that a break in the pipe line which supplies natural gas to Little Rock and other Arkansas cities might be repaired within three or four days. The break is under ten feet of water.

The first line broke yesterday afternoon two miles below Garland City, where Red river is at a stage of 34 feet. The break in the main caused the pressure at Little Rock to drop 110 pounds in eight hours. All factories have been cut off, but the supply for residences is still sufficient. Not only is Little Rock affected, but Hot Springs, Pine Bluff, Benton, Malvern, Guerdon, Hope, Prescott, Arkadelphia and Hayden will be without gas should the remaining main break.

Officers of the gas company say that no repairs can be made on the pipe line until Red river recedes to its normal depth, which it is believed will be at least three weeks. The gas is supplied from the Caddo fields in Louisiana.

Dallas to Have Big Cotton Mill if the Present Plans Carry

Dallas, May 3.—A large cotton mill for the manufacture of cotton goods of various descriptions is to be built in Dallas if plans now being worked out are completed. The cotton mill is to be backed by a group of the most representative business men of Dallas and the output is to be used by the largest wholesale houses and concerns which are at present buying cotton in the foreign markets.

A meeting of those who have pledged themselves to the big project is to be held in a few days. At that time it is stated that plans for the building of one of the largest cotton mills in the south will be agreed on. Those having knowledge of the project declare that the cotton mill will be of sufficient capacity to give employment to 500 operatives. The importance of a project of such magnitude to Dallas and Texas cannot be overestimated.

Non-Committal Verdict in Death of Ranch Hand

Banning Cal., May 3.—A non-committal verdict was rendered today by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Peter Glennon, the ranch foreman killed in a battle with Rev. Paul Reinholds of Paloma, Ill., an invalid Catholic priest and the latter's nurse, Miss Clara Scherrer, Friday night in a cabin near Palm Springs.

Death was due, the verdict read, "to a gunshot wound in the neck received by said Glennon while trying to murder one Clara Scherrer and one Paul Reinholds from the evidence adduced the jury is unable to determine whether a shot from the revolver was fired or by the deceased."

The clergyman, who went to the desert last week, seeking to benefit his health, was unable to appear. He was taken to Los Angeles tonight.

Mrs. Scherrer, a widow, was the principal witness and declared that Glennon's infatuation for her was responsible for the tragedy and that Glennon was killed by a shot from his own gun when she tried to take it from him.

This verdict was rendered by the jury after ten minutes' consideration of the testimony of Mrs. Scherrer and the deposition of the priest.

Opera Season a Success.
New York, May 3.—Giulio Gussazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company, on the eve of his departure tonight for Italy issued a statement in which he declared the season just ended, though confronted at the outset with many difficulties and with unpromising prospects, has been a success.

REDISTRICTING MAY BE SUBMITTED AT SPECIAL SESSION

NINETY MEMBERS OF HOUSE HAND GOVERNOR PETITION REQUESTING, AND HE SIGNIFIES WILLINGNESS TO SUBMIT TO MAJORITY IF SENATE ASKS.

GRIGG BILL MEETS APPROVAL

Lowell Makes Serious Attempt to Have Woman's Suffrage Enacted by Statute—Protest is Made Against Statement Recently Made by Walsh.

Austin, May 3.—There is every prospect that the question of congressional redistricting will be submitted to the special session if there is sufficient advance made with the two matters contained in the original call to warrant such submission. Some ninety members of the house today handed to the governor a petition for such redistricting and he signified his willingness to submit the matter if a majority of the senate is in favor of it and so it is practically certain it will be submitted.

The Griggs bill, the first redistricting bill introduced at the regular session, will be submitted again.

The senate majority it is said will favor passage of the Griggs bill. The Waco district will be the eleventh and will include McLennan, Coryell, Bosque and Falls. Job Henry is a candidate for the United States senate and in this district there will be at least four candidates for his place. Representative Lowell asserts he is in earnest in his resolution to have an opinion from the attorney general as to the report of the legislature to enact woman suffrage by statute. He maintains this can be done under the constitutional provision as to suffrage.

Agitation of this question at the special session does not seem to meet sufficient favor to afford any prospect of passing the resolution, although it will receive strong support from those who advocated it at the regular session.

Homers D. Wade and other good roads advocates are here to urge the governor to submit a general highway bill for this session.

The Gibson insurance bill is to be reported back to the senate Thursday morning and Chairman Grindstaff's committee to submit the bill to the committee back of it. The governor will speak before the committee at its meeting Tuesday evening.

House Appropriation Passes.
The house judiciary appropriation bill was passed finally without debate, and Chairman Wadsworth of the appropriation committee said the eleventh hour institution bill will be ready for consideration tomorrow.

A resolution was offered by Lawrence W. Wade of Harris to require the house committee on insurance to report on the Gibson insurance bill not later than Thursday morning, the idea being that there shall be no unnecessary delay in the measure. Chairman Grindstaff of the insurance committee said there was no disposition to delay the reporting of the bill. He finally announced that the bill would be reported to the house by Thursday morning and the resolution was not pressed. This means that the insurance bill will not be considered until next week in the house, as it will first have to be printed.

Committee hearing on the bill will commence tomorrow night.

Representative Florer and others introduced a county school bill carrying a million dollars appropriation for rural schools as recommended by the governor. This bill differs from that presented last week, in that the Florer bill strikes the item of $5000 for salaries and traveling expenses of rural school supervisors.

A resolution was adopted granting the use of the hall of the house to Superintendent Barnett of the orphan's home at Corsicana, in which to carry out a vocal program by forty children of the home on the evening of May 6.

Representative Dove also had a resolution adopted requesting the heads of all state departments, educational and eleemosynary institutions, to furnish to the house a copy of their March payroll for information of the members for making appropriations for their institutions for the coming year. The house adjourned until 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Proceedings of Senate.
When the senate met today Senator Westbrook offered a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate the case of the late Governor.

BRITISH MAKES A STATEMENT TO AID NEUTRAL SHIPPERS

ALTHOUGH UNITED STATES DENIES RIGHT OF BELLIGERENTS TO STOP SHIPS WITH CARGOES TO ENEMIES, WILL PUBLISH ENGLAND'S COMMUNICATION.

ALL VESSELS MAY BE BOLTED

Statement Says Following Suggestions Embassy Issued a Statement Tonight for the information of American shipping interests, designed to facilitate trade of the United States with neutral countries by pointing out a way to guard against interference by allied ships with cargoes not under the ban of Great Britain's blockade order in council.

The statement has been sent to all British consuls in the United States, to whom shippers are advised to give notice of the character of cargoes so that the British government may be advised before ships reach European waters.

The United States does not recognize the right of the allies to interfere with legitimate commerce between neutrals or with noncontraband goods, even when ultimately destined to Germany or Austria, and has set forth its position in lengthy diplomatic exchanges on the subject.

In order, however, to prevent as far as possible unnecessary delays and detentions, the foreign trade advisers of the state department have been holding informal conferences with British embassy officials in the interest of shippers and to aid those who desire to conform to the requirements of the order in council they have printed. The document states that the various countries contiguous to the European belligerents.

British Statement.
The statement in part follows: "The British embassy have received numerous applications from shippers of produce for information and advice to facilitate the quicker examination and passage of consignments of goods to neutral destinations for neutral consumption."

As well as articles of conditional contraband, they are authorized to state that where adequate information is furnished by consignors to show that the goods shipped are neutral property and are to be used exclusively for consumption in neutral countries or by the allies, this will be taken into consideration by the authorities charged with the execution of the order in council. This will also apply to shipments of certain descriptions of goods listed as absolute contraband. Such goods are, however, usually subject to special examination and control and in some cases special arrangements.

"It would greatly facilitate and expedite the work of clearing the vessels bound to neutral ports which are at or brought into British ports for examination of their papers, if shipping houses or their agents would give British consular officers a duplicate of the manifest of the vessel, immediately on its departure for Europe in order that if possible it may be transmitted to the British authorities in London in time for it to be reviewed and considered before the vessel arrives."

Disclose Nature of Goods.
"To further accelerate proceedings, manifests and bills of lading should disclose the exact nature of the goods and character of the cargo, and full business addresses of the ultimate consignee as well as the name and address of the consignor."

In the case of lubricating oils, it should be stated whether the oil is vegetable or mineral. The precise nature of animal and vegetable fats and oils should be also indicated; the term "lard" alone, for instance, is inadequate without some closer definition because the lists of prohibited exports of certain neutral countries differentiate between various preparations and compounds of this article.

In all arrangements which may be made for shipments of goods under the supervision of British consular officers, it should be clearly understood that the right of visit and search or detention is not waived but that the operations or verification which may be called for by the proximity of the countries of destination to Germany is simplified and expedited if consular supervision is given place and if full details are furnished."

any cattle car. J. K. Rosson, a livestock dealer of Fort Worth, Texas, protested against the proposed advance in freight rates. He said the services now given by railroads to livestock shippers had deteriorated in recent years, particularly in time consumed in reaching the markets. He contended that most cattle raisers last year operated without making a profit.

The examination of witnesses was expedited by Examiner Watkins, who restricted the cross-examination by ruling:

"It will not be contended, I think, in this case, that failure to advance the intrastate rates would prevent the commission from permitting an otherwise just and reasonable advance in interstate rates. Each of three cities, Wichita, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City, contend that it is discriminated against in favor of the other two. I do not see the materiality of continuing questioning along this line."

J. A. Seddon of St. Louis, special master in chancery, who took testimony in a case in which the ruling of the Interstate Commerce commission of Texas livestock rates was sustained was introduced in evidence.

Protest Against Increase in Western Freight Rates

Chicago, May 3.—Protest against proposed advances in freight rates on livestock from the west and southwest was heard today by Edgar Watkins, special examiner for the Interstate Commerce commission in the western commodity rate hearing.

Objection to present as well as proposed freight rates was voiced by witnesses in the grazing sections of the southwest and west.

UP AMONG CLOUDS IS THIS WONDER

Yet is Insignificant Compared to Texas Spot Where Vitalitas is Found.

Among the clouds in the Andes mountains of South America is one spot that may be the closest approach to the Vitalitas phenomenon found in Texas. One must travel out of Valparaiso on a narrow gauge railroad up dizzy heights to get to the Andean wonder. There medicated waters burst out of a mountain side that are said to be curative of various ailments. Thousands are constantly making the tortuous journey to them in the hopes of regaining lost health.

Medical waters as a rule have but faint traces of the curative properties and forces found within the earth. In the Texas Vitalitas stratum some of the most beneficial of these are found in full strength and so blended as to make the most effective natural medicine known. The properties and forces are extracted chemically pure, in its purest form, and constitute what is now so widely known as Vitalitas. Cures of chronic disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, and where all else has failed, are constantly reported from the use of Vitalitas. It is Nature's greatest corrective and tonic and a child or delicate invalid may take it. The dose is a teaspoonful in a half glass of water, either hot or cold.

You can get Vitalitas at Powers-Kelly Drug Co. For sale by druggists generally.

from the senate to make an investigation of the state health department and ascertain the facts relative to the expenditure of the $25,000 appropriation for the health department. He insisted on the immediate consideration of the resolution. There was some debate as to whether this committee of three should be appointed by the lieutenant governor or elected by the senate, which finally resulted in leaving the committee named by the lieutenant governor. Further consideration of the resolution was deferred until Tuesday morning.

Senators Lattimore, Henderson and Hudspeeth offered a resolution denouncing statements made by Frank Walsh of the committee on industrial conditions, in reference to conditions in Texas, as unwarranted and unfounded. The resolution quotes extracts from Walsh's report to the effect that the committee found Texas conditions bordering on serfdom. These statements were challenged and the committee was invited to come back and make another investigation of conditions in a few days' hearing in a committee room at Dallas.

Senator Lattimore had adopted an amendment asking of the press the same publicity of this resolution in denial as was given the statement by Walsh. The resolution was then adopted by a vote of 18 to 1, two present not voting.

On motion of Senator McGregor an official copy of the resolution was ordered sent by the secretary of the senate to Mr. Walsh, McGregor saying that he doubted that Walsh could have used the language quoted in the press report. The senate adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

That an attempt is to be made during the present special session of the legislature to enact woman's suffrage without the aid of a constitutional amendment today in the house when Representative Llewelling made an effort to have a resolution requesting the attorney general to give an opinion as to the constitutional right of the legislature to enact equal suffrage by statute. This is the text of the resolution: "Whereas, the question has recently been raised in the public prints by means of a resolution introduced in the legislature whether the legislature has the power to enact woman suffrage by statute; and, Whereas, this question is one of the important problems before the people of Texas; therefore, be it resolved, that we request the attorney general to give an opinion as to our constitutional right to enact equal suffrage by statute."

As the time for the consideration of the resolution had expired, Mr. Llewelling said he merely wanted it read and asked for such permission. Immediately half a dozen members were on their feet objecting, and the resolution went over until tomorrow.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN TO GO ON STAND: MAY CALL BARNES

EX-PRESIDENT TO TESTIFY IN LIBEL SUIT, SUPREME COURT OF NEW YORK—WILL BE ALLOWED TO GIVE TESTIMONY REGARDING FACTS.

MORE LETTERS BROUGHT IN

Correspondence Between Platt and Barnes and Roosevelt Will Be Produced—Printing in Albany Probed in Day's Hearings—Journal Has Job Press.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 3.—Theodore Roosevelt again will be upon the witness stand in the supreme court here tomorrow and the prospects tonight were that Wm. Barnes would either precede or follow him.

Colonel Roosevelt, under a new ruling of the court, will be allowed to testify in regard to facts not set forth in the pleadings in mitigation of damages. And he may produce evidence designed to show that he held no malice for Mr. Barnes at the time he delivered speeches in which the plaintiff was named.

Mr. Barnes was actually called as a witness for the defense today after Franklin Crable, secretary and treasurer of the Albany Journal company had sworn that books of the corporation which he asked about were in the possession of the plaintiff.

Mr. Barnes was to testify in regard to how much stock he owned in the Journal company and possibly other things today, but later was instructed to bring the books to court with him in the morning.

More letters by the late Senator Platt on the one hand, and Barnes and Roosevelt on the other, also will be produced tomorrow. The letters were brought in today by Edward T. Platt, son of the former senator.

Mr. Platt wanted an agreement that if any of the 300 or more letters in his possession went into the record all should go in. Counsel for Colonel Roosevelt, however, protested and Mr. Platt left the room with a legal representative of each principal.

Outside the Roosevelt attorney picked twelve or fourteen letters he thought might be of possible value to the defendant. These letters will be produced when they are asked for tomorrow.

The testimony today was of many kinds. There was evidence regarding printing in Albany. One witness said the plant of the Albany Journal contained a job press. He admitted, however, that it was operated with a "single kicker" furnishing the motive power. Another witness identified books printed for the city of Albany bearing the line "printed by the Journal company," and admitted that his company, the Argus company, had actually struck off book. The same witness told of the Journal company being paid 15 per cent commission upon orders by the Argus company.

City officials and a former city official appeared on the stand.

None of the witnesses testified that he had ever had any business dealings with Mr. Barnes personally or that Mr. Barnes ever had solicited printing.

Two former Albany correspondents for New York newspapers testified. The first, Jacob J. Dickinson of Washington, D. C. swore that Mr. Barnes in discussing anti-race track legislation had said Governor Hughes told him he favored the measure as a matter of conscience and that the success of the republican party was a paramount aim.

Walter T. Arndt of New York, the second correspondent, swore that Mr. Barnes had told him in 1911 he had received a message from Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall that a direct primaries bill, then before the legislature, was likely to pass unless the republicans were to unite with the democrats and the Tammany leader had asked the plaintiffs' help. Mr. Barnes was quoted as saying that the democrats were in control at Albany and that Murphy could "pull his own chestnuts out of the fire."

JUMPING AT CONCLUSIONS.

Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the United States Commission on Industrial Relations, has charged that John D. Rockefeller Jr., and his associates care more for money than they do for justice. Without passing upon the merits or demerits of the Rockefeller's, we would make the observation that Mr. Walsh likes sensational publicity for himself as well as Mr. Rockefeller does money, "and then some," to employ a slang expression.

Discussing the result of the recent land hearing in this state, in connection with his reply to Mr. Rockefeller Sunday, Mr. Walsh employed this sensational language:

"In Texas conditions are the worst of any, but the hopes and the hearts of the people are brighter than any. We received sworn testimony of numerous witnesses that men, some of them with families, worked for 80c a day and had to pay their own board. At the same time, we ascertained that on one ranch alone, the Taft ranch, comprising about 300,000 acres—only 12,000 were being worked."

"We found in Texas conditions bordering upon serfdom. We found in numerous localities the women and children of Texas are in the same condition that confronts the women and children in the cruel, crowded and congested districts of some of our factory towns, plus loneliness and lack of educational facilities."

It will be recalled that the commission over which Mr. Walsh presides spent six days in a hearing in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at Dallas, during which time witnesses were heard from Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, and possibly another state or two, in addition to those from Texas. If such a hearing is conclusive investigations are worth very little and that the government's money expended upon the Walsh commission—and he insists upon being the whole show, including the menagerie—has been virtually thrown away.

So eager for sensations as the chairman of the commission appears to be, why does he not come out and tell the country that his advance agent who worked up the witnesses for the land hearing at Dallas, told the newspaper boys at Dallas that he did not put on the witness from Lamar county—who formerly lived in Arkansas, and who was accompanied by his wife and children, and all of whom told a very pitiful tale—as a representative tenant of this state, but merely to give his old newspaper friends in Dallas a first-class newspaper story?

This is the information that has come to this office and it would appear that Mr. Walsh is as anxious to keep in the limelight, by the aid of the newspapers which carry his interviews and addresses, as his advance agent was to accommodate his old newspaper associates by providing them with a good, readable story.

We note some of the state senators are denouncing the Walsh statement as to Texas conditions and we are glad they are. Conditions on some of the farms in Texas are far from ideal, but an outsider who spent six days hearing very limited testimony on conditions in as many states is not qualified to discuss actual conditions here intelligently.

The Bexar county grand jury complains that there are 462 special policemen in the city of San Antonio and that many of these men have been abusing their permits to carry guns by using these guns to enforce the payment of bills which they seek to collect. The "six-shooter" deputy has outlived his usefulness and it would not be a bad idea for grand juries everywhere to inspect the lists of special officers in all departments of the government in the hope of preventing just such abuses as have been discovered in San Antonio.

No position at the pie counter is too humble to attract the attention of the would-be office holders. For instance, eight men of Fort Worth applied for the position of dog catcher.

WHY NOT A STATE LAND BANK?

In a very interesting letter to the editor of the Mobile Item from W. P. G. Harding, former president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, and now member of the Federal Reserve board, which we are reproducing in today's issue, the question of a state land bank as a means of supplying credit to prospective land buyers is suggested and a definite proposition set forth for the establishment of such a bank in Alabama. Students of rural credits will find much of interest in the letter, whether they agree with the suggestions or not. But coming from one of the leading bankers of the country, as they do, and from a man who is also interested in the agricultural advancement of his state these suggestions are entitled to consideration and that with end in view we are passing them on to our readers.

And the question very naturally arises, if Alabama can organize a state land bank that will meet the needs of the agricultural classes of that state, why can not Texas organize a land bank that will supply the farmers of this state with the credit they need? As Mr. Harding sets out, there are some sections of the country that are not deeply interested in the question of rural credits. In fact, there are sections of the country where the farmers are not really in need of financial assistance. Then, too, each state has its individual problems to contend with, and it stands to reason that if a state land bank is feasible at all, the state is better able to provide one which will meet its peculiar needs than is the federal government, which would have to legislate not for an individual state, but for forty-eight states.

Then Texas has the advantage of Alabama, in a way, in that it has a very successful system of state banks, already doing business which could very easily act as the agents of the state land banks, make its loans and collections in their particular territory, and thus carry out much of the routine of a state land bank organization without the establishment of new and more expensive machinery for this purpose.

As a basis for discussion, we would suggest a central land bank, located at a point to be designated by the legislature, which should incorporate with an initial capitalization of $5,000,000, this sum to be increased in case of necessity. The various state banks should be required by law to subscribe to the capital stock of this bank to the extent of ten per cent of their own present capital stock. This would provide a capital of $3,244,000. The remainder of the stock $1,776,000 would be subscribed by private individuals in Texas. In order to distribute the capitalization over the state as largely as possible, the capital stock might be pro-rated in accordance with the population of the various counties, or at least give each county the option of taking so much capital stock if its citizens so desired. In case no one in a county desired to subscribe the stock might be sold elsewhere.

It would not be necessary for all of the stock to be paid in at the outset, thus relieving the state banks of any great demand made upon them. But by permitting them to act as local agents for the state land bank, receiving a commission on all moneys loaned and all collections made, they would be fully compensated for any inconvenience that might be caused them in the requirement that they subscribe to the capital stock.

It would be necessary, of course, for the capital stock of the bank to be exempted from taxation, while if the collateral trust bonds, which the bank should be permitted to issue after its capital stock had been exhausted, and which would be secured by the deposit of its mortgages with a trustee for the purpose of obtaining funds for additional loans, were guaranteed by the state, they would be come an exceptionally desirable investment for both local and outside capital and could be placed at very low rates of interest. The state could provide ample protection for itself in providing that it would guarantee only a certain amount of the bonds, or it could provide for a certain number of representatives of the state government on the board of control.

For a board of directors we would suggest twelve or thirteen men. Of this number the state banks, who will subscribe the bulk of the capital stock, should elect seven of the directors, one from each of the districts in the territory embraced by the State Bankers' Association. Three of the directors should be chosen by the private individuals holding the remainder of the capital stock, while the state commissioner of banking and insurance should constitute a director, and the governor should be empowered to name one or two of the directors, the number he should name being conditioned upon whether the bank should have twelve or thirteen men to guide its affairs.

Some provision should be made for a reasonable number of landholders or practical farmers on the board of directors in order to give to that body some representatives of the farming class who could appreciate the problems of the land buyer.

Money should be loaned for as long a period as twenty-five years with the lowest rate of interest at which the bank could be operated and make a reasonable profit and accumulate a reasonable surplus. In this way, the annual payments, including interest and a portion of the principal, would amount to no more than interest on such a sum does at present, and at the end of the period both the principal and the interest would be discharged and the borrower would have his home paid for, whereas under present conditions he loses his home in a few years if he can pay nothing more than the interest. Mr. Harding suggests that profits on the capital stock should be limited to 6 per cent. That is a detail that could be easily determined after the general principles of the bank have been considered.

ly determined after the general principles of the bank have been considered.

It has been suggested by him, too, that the loans be restricted to improved farm lands and that the greatest care be exercised in making the loans, especially as regards the amount to be loaned in relation to the value of the land. He suggests that the loans be not permitted to exceed 50 per cent of the amounts at which the various bits of land are rendered for taxation. In Texas, where land is rendered at from one-fourth to one-half its value, this ratio for loans would be entirely too low, we think, but that is another detail that can be worked out later with fuller consideration and discussion, though of course all will admit that there is occasion for the exercise of the caution which Mr. Harding urges.

It has been suggested that instead of restricting the profits which the bank might make, and turning the surplus over to the state to be used in advancing the rural schools, promoting good roads and similar things, as Mr. Harding proposes, that all profits beyond a certain per cent be set aside as a surplus fund to be invested in raw lands, these lands to be improved and sold out in farms of regular sizes to farmers, or rented to farmers at stipulated prices for a specific period with the renter having the option of buying at the close of that period, the price of the land when he purchases to be the same as the purchase price that existed at the beginning of his rental contract. This renting and purchasing privilege, however, should be restricted to those farmers who exhibit some thrift and a cash consideration might be required before a farmer would be permitted to move on the land. The whole scheme of the land bank is to aid the man who is willing to aid himself and the thrifless man is not going to pay for land through his own efforts no matter how attractive a proposition may be made him.

Some system of rural credits must be had if our agricultural interests are to be conserved. We believe a system of state land banks would be preferable to one supervised by the federal government because the state government can more nearly ascertain the needs of the state population than the federal government, ministering to all the states, can. And then a system of state land banks would afford a medium for such co-operation as the federal government might find itself able to render from time to time. But there is no more need for the federal government doing for the states those things which the states can do for themselves than there is for any government doing for the individual citizen those things which the citizen can do for himself.

Due to the fact that whatever promotes our agricultural interests, helps everybody in the state, inasmuch as the soil is the source of all our true wealth—the establishment of a land bank, calculated to aid the farmer, can not be characterized as class legislation. However, before such a bank should be established the matter will have to go before the people in the form of a constitutional amendment and for such an amendment to be adopted it will be necessary for a majority of those participating in the election to vote for it, and where all the people concur in a measure it can not be denominated as class legislation.

We would, with no claim to originality or pride of authorship, suggest to our lawmakers and other state officials, as well as bankers, lawyers, editors, commercial bodies and students of rural credit and economics generally, a perusal of these suggestions and the article by Mr. Harding, for we believe the plan is a practical one. At least a study of the general question of rural credits will not be amiss and out of a general study of the whole question by all who are interested in the question the basis for a wholesome and practical bill ought to be devised.

Just by the way of keeping the record straight, it will be interesting to see which of those bankers and trust companies which are so diligent in urging the repeal of the Robertson insurance law and the passage of the Gibson bill are named the agents for the placing of the $35,000,000 loans which these companies promise to place in this state provided they are permitted to re-enter.

Fort Worth mothers succeeded in securing the election of two of their candidates in the school board election Saturday, and the third one might have succeeded but he withdrew from the race at the last moment. The mothers took a hand in the fight in the hope of redeeming the schools from threatened politics in the board and their ticket won over four others.

Heroism and parent love are not confined to any race or creed. Z. Domingo of Dallas, the Italian father who died in an effort to rescue his son from a well in which poisonous gases had accumulated, did what any other true father would have done—went to the rescue of the son even at the risk of his own life.

There are no braver, truer citizens than the volunteer firemen and Texas has the pick of the lot. They come to Waco today for a three-days' session and there is nothing in this city which is too good for them. They protect us while we sleep and Waco will be glad to serve during the next three days while these men enjoy themselves.

The retiring city administration of Dallas left nearly $2,000,000 in the treasury, which leads to the belief that the tax rate in that city can be lowered for the next year. That about the most encouraging news that has come out of Dallas in many a day.

Last week we went to see what was made in Waco. This week, let us buy what is made in Waco.

STATE AND BANK IS HARDING'S CHOICE

MEMBER OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD THINKS IT WOULD BE BETTER THAN NATIONAL.

ARGUMENTS IN ITS FAVOR

Comes Nearer Home, Is Better Adapted to Local Needs and Forms Medium for Co-operation.

(Mobile Item.)
Washington, D. C., April 16, 1915.
W. M. Clemens, Editor The Mobile Item, Mobile, Ala.:

Dear Mr. Clemens—It has been suggested that I give you an exposition, a plan for a system of rural credits in Alabama that was discussed at a meeting of the Alabama land congress at Mobile, in the fall of 1912. I wish to say that the subject of rural credits is one that does not properly come within the purview of the federal reserve board, and at the last session of congress a joint committee was appointed to study the subject and report to congress at its regular session next winter. What I have to say, therefore, must not be regarded as an expression of the views of the members of the board, or as having any official significance whatever, as I am writing purely as a citizen of Alabama who feels a deep interest in the development of our state along all legitimate lines.

The events of the last six months have demonstrated in a forcible way the necessity for crop diversification, and have shown the great advantages that would be gained by the division of large plantations into smaller farms actually owned by those cultivating them, thus correcting the evils of the present landlordism. Our state enjoys great natural advantages as to soil and climate, and should attract thousands of desirable settlers from abroad and from other states. It is important also in order to secure the best results, that farm life be made more attractive. The chief obstacle in the way of the proper development of our rural communities in Alabama is the lack of money at reasonable rates, and this circumstance has been one of the principal factors in making our present credit system practically useless. The production of cotton to the virtual exclusion of all other money crops, and year after year we have seen a large part of the money we have run into the state for the purchase of cotton go out again to pay for food-stuffs, including both grain and meat. Some headway has been made in recent years in the production of the livestock industry has shown signs of promise. Vast tracts of land, however, are planted in cotton every year or are permitted to lie fallow, that are not adapted for cereals, for potatoes, for sheep grazing or for cattle raising. Even in the production of cotton our methods are in most cases crude, and as a rule our farmers are not able to adopt the advanced systems that obtain in other sections of the country, which are less favored by nature.

Annual Installments Wipe Out Loan. I am sure that there are many tenants who would be glad of an opportunity to become landlords, and that there are many small landlords who would like to diversify and to adopt more scientific methods of farming, if they could make the necessary financial arrangements; but going into debt is a serious thing, and the idea of a loan of a few hundred or a few thousand dollars for two or three years at a high rate of interest, secured by a mortgage upon the farm, which is at the same time a homestead, is not attractive. It would mean in many cases the shifting of the loan at maturity, or a foreclosure, but if loans of twenty-five or thirty years could be had, repayable in annual installments which would be less than ordinary interest payments under present conditions, the whole aspect of the case would be changed.

The federal reserve act, which has revolutionized the financial system of the country, does not provide, as far as the public is concerned, any new method of deposit or discount. It merely created a co-ordinated system of banking, and established for the use and protection of banks already in existence, a basis of interest in rural credits, while widespread, is not as great in some sections as in others, nor is the need for such a system in some of the older and wealthier states as great as in the case of the south. It seems to me that the question is essentially one for consideration by the states, and that if there were land banks established in several states, that on a basis would thus be afforded the national government for its co-operation.

The legislature of Alabama will convene again in July to consider a plan for the permanent relief of the state treasury as proposed by Governor Henderson, which will, if adopted by the legislature, call for the submission to the people of an amendment to the constitution. The rural credit plan discussed at the Alabama land congress would also require, to become effective, an amendment to the constitution. It seems to me, therefore, that the time is opportune for the serious consideration of some adequate plan for the safe and proper development of our farming districts, and that it is not proper that the state should engage in the banking business; that experiment was tried 90 years ago and resulted 15 years later in disaster. Nor is it suggested that our law be changed so as to encourage wild speculation in lands, or to permit the operation of irresponsible or mushroom organizations. The banks of Alabama have done a great deal for the development of the state, and many of them make loans on real estate.

These banks all use for this purpose funds on deposit with them on which in most cases interest is paid. Their terms, therefore, are necessarily not as liberal, both as regards the duration of the loan and the rate of interest, as are desirable, and if every farm mortgage loan now carried by farm mortgage banks should be repaid, there should be no difficulty in employing these funds to good advantage in building up the state. I hope, therefore, that after the plan proposed is carefully studied, and if it should be found to be sound and practicable, the state of Alabama, secured by the fact that it will not be opposed by the state, it is thought that its adoption would relieve them of fixed loans, that it would at the same time develop a broader field for desirable temporary loans, and would furthermore tend to increase deposits.

The plan suggested would call for the incorporation and organization of a land mortgage bank to be located in such city as may be determined by the legislature, with a paid in capital of $500,000, and with an authorized capital of five or six times that sum. As private lenders are exempt from taxation on mortgage loans after the record fee of $1.50 per thousand has been paid, it would be necessary in order to attract subscriptions to the capital stock, to exempt shares of stock in the land mortgage bank from taxation. It would be well to have the stock as widely scattered over the state as possible, and, therefore, a tentative allotment should be made to citizens of each county in proportion to its population. Should the plan of any county fail to subscribe for the full amount allotted them, the balance could be taken by citizens of other counties.

The land mortgage bank should not be permitted to receive deposits of any kind, and its operations should be limited to the investment of its own capital and of the funds secured by a pledge of its mortgage loans. Loans should not be permitted to be made at rates of interest as reasonable as possible, and the expense of administration should be kept down to a minimum. It is suggested, therefore, that dividends to stockholders be limited to six per cent per annum, and that the balance of earnings, after that a small part to surplus, should be paid over to the state for the school fund, for the construction of good roads, or for other purposes that may be determined by the legislature.

Great care should be taken in passing upon applications for loans. The amount should be limited to farming cultivation, and should not exceed 50 per cent of actual values, and reference should be had to the books of the county tax assessors in determining these values. The bank should be required to bear the approval of two or more stockholders of the land bank residing in the county where the property is located. Competent appraisers should be appointed in order that the annual payments, which should include the interest charge and the amortization payment, may be scientifically correct. It might be well to authorize the tax collectors in the various counties to collect these payments for the land bank at the time the taxes on the property are paid. When the funds provided by the state in the land mortgage bank have been exhausted, the land bank should be authorized to deposit its mortgages with a trustee to secure an issue of collateral trust bonds, the proceeds of which should be used for additional loans. The total issue of collateral trust bonds should not exceed four or five times the actual paid in capital, so that if the land bank begins business with a capital paid in of $500,000, its maximum limit of collateral trust bonds would be $2,500,000. After that figure is reached it would be necessary to increase the capital stock before making additional loans. A proper proportion of these bonds, represented by the amount of amortization payments, should be thoroughly safeguarded, and to enable these collateral trust bonds to have the widest possible market and to command the lowest rate of interest, the state should guarantee the payment of principal and interest. This suggestion, I know, is sure to meet with some opposition. It seems to me, however, that the interests of the state should be thoroughly safeguarded, and that its margin of security would be ample. In the first place, the loans would be well scattered; next, the state would have in its own hands the collection of the interest and amortization installments that would become due each fall; and, third, it should have a share in the management of the bank by providing that not more than two-thirds of the directors should be chosen by the stockholders, and that at least one-third should be appointed by the governor to represent the state, or it might be provided that certain state officers, elected by the people, should be ex-officio directors of the land mortgage bank. Furthermore, should the total amount of collateral trust bonds to be issued be limited to four or five times the paid in capital of the land mortgage

Two Very Poor Reasons

If some housewives inadvertently use baking powder which contains alum it is Usually for two reasons—lack of knowledge as to what it is made of, or because it costs less than a standard brand like Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar.

There is no longer any reason for lack of knowledge, since the label on every baking powder can shows in plain English just what it contains. If the label on your can names alum as one of the ingredients, and you are in doubt about its unhealthfulness, your doctor can enlighten you.

As to the lower cost, there is very little difference in practical use, about one cent for a whole cake or pan of biscuits—a mere trifle when you consider the vast difference in healthfulness in favor of food made with

Not Class Legislation. The objection will probably be urged that this would be class legislation, and that a constitutional amendment would be necessary for it to become effective, the system could be adopted only by a majority vote of the people, which would demonstrate that the legislation is after all not for a class, but for the best interests of a majority of the people of Alabama. If not adopted, no harm would be done, as an election would have to be held in any event, should the legislature adopt Governor Henderson's views regarding permanent measures for relieving the finances of the state.

I do not wish to be understood that I guarantee by the state of the collateral trust bonds to be issued by the proposed land mortgage bank is absolutely essential for the success of a rural credit system in Alabama. Experience is after the stock of such a bank, however, from all taxation whatever.

Cottolene—Unequalled for purity and wholesomeness

The shortening you use in cooking and baking should be as pure and wholesome as the food that is prepared with it.

Cottolene

is itself a pure, wholesome food, consisting of ultra-refined cottonseed oil—as fine as the choicest salad oil—and beef stearine from selected leaf beef suet.

Cottolene is not "just as good" as other cooking and frying fats—it is better than any other—more nutritious, wholesome, digestible—better in every way.

Cottolene does not absorb tastes or odors. Heat it slowly and use it over and over for all kinds of frying.

Always use a third less of Cottolene than of any other shortening or frying fat. Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply.

is, from the reasons already cited, absolutely necessary. It may be that state supervision and close co-operation between the state officials and stockholders of the land mortgage bank, and the good quality of the loans in which its capital stock would be invested, would be enough to inspire confidence in the bank's solvency and trust funds to make them marketable at a fair rate of interest, as would no means as low, however, as would be the case if the bonds were supported by the credit of the state. I ported by the credit of the state. I appreciate, moreover, the dangers that would attach to the policy of making the state the guarantor of obligations of the bank, and am of the opinion that in case it should be decided to submit the ideas above advanced to the legislature, it might be well to limit the total amount of bonds to be guaranteed by the state to a fixed sum, say $2,000,000, which would, on the basis of a paid-in capital of $500,000, give the state a margin of 25 per cent. After this amount had been invested in farm mortgages, the system would have then been tested out and understood, and if proved a success, further bond issues could be floated on satisfactory terms without recourse to the credit of the state.

There are doubtless many legal matters which should be considered in this connection, which I, as a layman, am not qualified to discuss. The object of this letter is to sound the sentiment in Alabama as regards rural credits, and should the idea arise to submit the entire question to the consideration of the various commercial bodies in the state, in order that the legal details may be duly considered, and that a bill may be drawn by competent counsel.

Very truly yours,
W. P. G. HARDING.

BAYLOR SCORES FOUR VICTORIES IN A DAY

BOTH DEBATING AND BASEBALL TEAMS WIN IN CONTESTS OVER ADVERSARIES.

METHODISTS LOSERS HERE

First of Three Annual Debates With Southwestern Is Held in Carroll Chapel.

Ever will May 4, 1915, be remembered in the annals of Baylor. Four victories in one day to university teams is yesterday's record. The local debaters defeated Southwestern here, a Baylor debating team defeated Mercer university at Macon, Ga., the baseball team beat Trinity university 2 to 1, at Waxahachie, and the Baylor Cubs defeated Meridian college at Meridian, 7 to 6.

Baylor defeated Southwestern university in the first of a series of three annual debates by a unanimous decision of the judges in Carroll chapel last night. The question, "Resolved that the United States should increase her navy to compare favorably with that of any other nation," was championed on the affirmative by T. M. James and Verdie Pittman of Southwestern, while Fred W. Smith of Crawford, and L. L. Burkhalter of West, defended the negative for Baylor.

Mr. James, the first speaker for the affirmative, took the stand that his side favored peace and opposed militarism, and defined "compare favorably" as meaning the ability to enter a sea battle with as good odds as the navy for protection, for the defense of national policies, and because treaties are not sufficient protection. L. L. Burkhalter opened the discussion for the negative. He declared that his side was in favor of a large navy, but said that the question turned on the degree of increase. For the United States navy to equal England's in 1920, nine battleships a year of a dreadnought type would be required. He also said that the cost of such an increase would more than consume our national revenue. Mr. Burkhalter said that our danger was from within and not from without. Our geographical position, our history and our policies show our ability to protect ourselves. He said England's friendship he also declared to be a valuable asset in maintaining peace. Mr. Pittman, the second speaker for the affirmative, summed up his argument for the affirmative in the following points: First, present day conditions show our danger from attack; second, a large navy is a real economy. He illustrated the failure of arbitration by reciting the fact that fifteen wars have occurred in the past nine years. Fred W. Smith, the last negative speaker, declared that there is no limit to an increase when once begun. The navy would all be greatly increased while our relative strength would be the same. He outlined the five causes of war as given by President Elliot of Harvard. He next said that this increase would irreparably impede America's leadership in the movement of judicial settlement of international disputes.

The order of the rejoinders were: Pittman, Smith, Burkhalter and James. Following the debate Miss Reba Funk gave a piano solo.

The judges of the contest were Ed. Shelton of Temple, J. D. Holcomb of Waco, and Ed. Woodall of Hillsboro. The next of these series of debates will be held with Southwestern at Georgetown some time during the spring of next year.

Jack Ray Returns From Trip Through Intercoastal Canal

John C. Ray returned Saturday morning from a trip of inspection through the intercoastal canal built by the United States government. The trip was made at the invitation of Colonel C. S. Rice, government engineer in charge of the work, on the government yacht Colonel. Others in the party were F. P. Holland, publisher of Holland's Magazine of Dallas, and C. S. E. Holland of Victoria. Mr. Ray said yesterday that the canal had been completed from Galveston to Corpus Christi, and is being used by steamers. The party stopped at Freeport, where they inspected the future great port of Texas, including the great sulphur mines. Here they took on board Colonel Warfield, head of the Atlantic Steamship company, who proposes to put in a line of boats up the Brazos to Waco as soon as the government locks and dams are completed.

At Rockport, the mayor and county commissioners met the party, carrying them over to Aransas Pass for a big fish dinner. Here the Waco men made speeches on good roads, and visited the oil wells in this section. Mr. Ray said that everywhere the party turned to the conversation Mr. Ray was the subject of Waco. The party was compelled to leave the party Saturday, but Colonel Seely went on to Texas City, where a large dock was formally opened. Mr. Seely will return this morning.

Baptist Pastors Name Committee on Convention Route

A special train will carry at least 100 Waco Baptists to the meeting May 12 of the Southern Baptist convention, held this year in Houston. It is expected that as many more will board the train at various stops along the route. At a meeting of the Waco Baptist Pastors' association held yesterday morning, Rev. J. M. Dawson, Rev. F. S. Groner and Rev. W. W. Melton were appointed a committee to select other arrangements necessary. The Woman's Mission union of the Southern Baptist church will hold its sessions at the same time as the convention. The Southern Baptist convention is the general governing body of the church. Several Waco churchmen held important committees of the convention.

Every train yesterday and last night brought in firemen, who are coming from all parts of the state. Seguin, Tulla, Victoria, Weatherford, Bowie, Pecos City, Sweetwater, Dublin, Merkel, Brownwood, Grandview, Lancaster, Sulphur Springs, Orange, Kaufman, Yoakum, Stephenville, Baird, Comanche, Navasota, Greenville and Marlin delegations arrived yesterday. Last night large delegations arrived from McKinney, Anson, Cleburne, Itasca, Smithville, Wichita Falls, Weatherford, Round Rock, Jacksboro, Plainview, Clifton, Hereford, Brenham, San Marcos, Bellville, Mineral Wells, Harlingen, Giddings, Dalhart, Corpus Christi, La Grange, Wicketown, New Braunfels, Hallettsville, Sabin, Haskell, Gainesville, Gonzales, Sabin, Runge, McKinney, Van Alstyne, Marfa, Roscoe, Mexia, Elgin, Vernon, Cisco, Belton, Stratford, Elgin, Midland, Brown, Corsicana, Austin, Midland, Roschub, Palacios, Granbury, Winnebago, Bonham, Arlington, Farmersburg, Seymour, Denton, Quanah and Chillicothe. Other delegations were delayed by washouts and bad schedules, and still others will arrive this morning.

President Peter Schramm of the state association arrived last night. "Mother" J. J. Clinton of Abilene, matron of the state association, also arrived last night. Other officers will be in this morning.

Among the sponsors, matrons and matrons of honor registered at the headquarters yesterday were: Mrs. Joe A. Hillyer, sponsor, and Mrs. D. M. May, matron of honor, Ennis; Miss K. Hawkins, sponsor, and Mrs. B. Billie Hawkins, matron of honor, Brownwood; Miss Lillian Spreckels, sponsor, and Miss Irene Reiss, matron of honor, La Grange; Miss Rita Beyette, sponsor, and Miss Mada Brownlow, matron of honor, Denton; Miss Nell Smith, sponsor, and Mrs. L. H. Spear, matron of honor, Quanah. Another delegation in figure in the parade was the Waco fire department, which appeared in full uniform.

The convention headquarters in the Majestic theatre building on the fourth street was a busy place all yesterday and last night. Delegates arrived at the trains by local firemen and conducted to the headquarters, where they registered and assigned to hotels and rooming houses. The delegates in their own way enjoyed themselves in the city until this morning, when the convention will be opened with a parade of the firemen and the equipment of the Waco fire department will be shown in its entirety.

Candidates are already in the field for fourth vice president of the association. The election comes Thursday night. The custom of the association is to promote officers in order until the highest is reached, leaving only one man, the fourth vice president, to be elected each year. George J. Kent of Seguin, and V. S. Fritz of Victoria, are the candidates already in the field.

Many Want Convention. New Braunfels and Waxahachie were early in the race for the next convention. The firemen of Corpus Christi arrived in the city last night with a well developed boom, which they expect to grow large enough to capture the prize for the coast city. Belton is also in the race. Strong parties are working for each town, and with the arrival of all the delegates and the opening of the sessions of the convention several other cities are expected to enter the race to make it more interesting.

New Braunfels made a strong fight for the present convention at the meeting of the firemen of that city in 1914. New Braunfels raised for the entertainment alone a fund of $1,000 that has been raised for the entertainment alone. The firemen of that city are expected to bring a large delegation to the convention. New Braunfels made a strong fight for the present convention at the meeting of the firemen of that city in 1914. New Braunfels raised for the entertainment alone a fund of $1,000 that has been raised for the entertainment alone. The firemen of that city are expected to bring a large delegation to the convention.

The youngest fireman, 10 years old, came in from Comanche, came in yesterday afternoon. "Bill" is a matron of the Comanche department, and when pressed he will tell his full name, which is William Sullivan. He is a third in the full regalia of the department, and holds a levee of his admirers wherever he goes.

Mayor J. W. Riggs will be on the jump this morning. He is scheduled to deliver two welcoming addresses to two delegations at the same hour. At 10 o'clock, the Texas Women's Press Association will hold its session at the city hall. A little ahead of time, about 9:30, in the public library, and then a parade over the Majestic theatre and welcome to the firemen in the name of the city. He has the reputation of being about the greatest welcomer there is, but two state conventions in one hour will be a record even for the mayor.

Program for Today. Today's program for the convention follows: Delegates, sponsors and visiting firemen meet at Majestic theatre at 8:30 a. m. Parade will be formed and march down the Majestic theatre up Austin avenue to Eighth, down Eighth to Franklin, down Franklin to Third, up Third to Austin and thence to the Majestic theatre. Convention will be called to order immediately after the parade. President Schramm presiding. The invocation will be delivered by Father Heckman, state chaplain of the association. Addresses and responses as follows: Address of welcome on behalf of the city of Waco, Mayor J. W. Riggs. Response, Peter Schramm, state president. Positive Relief for Constipation

The progress of modern medical science is, perhaps, no more forcefully evident than in the simplifying of many of the old time remedies of past generations. For instance, the harsh cathartics and violent purgatives used by our forefathers to relieve constipation are now known to be not only unnecessary but really harmful. Constipation can be more effectively relieved without the discomfort and pain these old-time remedies occasion.

A combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is most effective, yet mild and pleasant. It is absolutely free from opiates and narcotics and equally as desirable a remedy for the tiniest babe as for rugged manhood. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

Visitor from Chicago Enthusiastic Over Charms of Waco

H. G. Diehl of Chicago, a recent guest, with his wife, of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Davis of this city, said that in his opinion Waco is one of the ideal cities they had visited in their broad swing around from Chicago to the Pacific coast and on back to their home. Mr. Davis, who is the manager here of the National Biscuit company, extended several social courtesies to Mr. and Mrs. Diehl and the visitors were, in the language of Mr. Diehl, "simply carried away by the hospitality of all Wacoans."

"Cameron, an affable, that river driveway," he said, "are attractions within themselves that will bring fame to Waco, but you have so many other splendid features, including one of the cleanest cities it has been our pleasure to visit, magnificent homes, beautiful cottages, lovely streets and a civic pride displayed by your citizenship that is unequalled anywhere."

"I believe, on a whole, that Waco has been less affected by conditions than any other place we have visited, for all whom I have met have been optimistic to a wonderful degree, and seem to realize that we are in the midst of only a temporary lull, and when business blossoms out of yore that Waco will be one of the brightest flowers of all, when the people will become as busy as bees gathering nectar and the honey that will come from an increased volume of business on all sides."

"Why shouldn't Waco be a big metropolis of the southwest?" he said. "You have all the earmarks of a great city—far from any competing city of a larger size by many miles, the center of one of the richest agricultural belts in the world, I am sure, and I sincerely believe it, and at the same time destined to become a great factory and commercial center by reason of your unsurpassed railroad facilities and the fact that early realization of Brazos navigation is assured."

"Then you have the out-hustling bunch of live wires I ever saw—fellows that grab your hand with a heartiness and an enthusiasm that at once starts the Waco spirit tingling through one's veins and everybody goes away talking Waco, boasting Waco and wanting a return engagement, or to look among your folks. Take it from me, you need have no fear. The future is bright for Waco. Your stores will soon fill up again, your houses will not remain vacant long, there is to be a swing of the pendulum toward the high hour of progress that will keep circling around the dial of prosperity, and each succeeding day will find grander accomplishments than your people ever dreamed of."

"Mark my prediction, in ten years Waco will take front rank with all the leading cities of the fast developing south, and now is the time to keep the ball rolling, never looking back, never reckoning with the fellow with the dumps, but lining up with the folks with the smile that won't come off. Ease up on the gloom, shoot the big ball business to 'em and hands all around for the best town in Texas—Waco."

WOMEN SHOULD TAKE WARNING

If the statement made at a New York Assembly of women, that healthy American women are so rare that they are almost extinct, is true, it is time for the women of America to take warning and look to their health. It may be headaches, backaches, dragging down pains, nervousness, mental depression that are tell-tale symptoms of some organic derangement. For which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—a simple remedy made from roots and herbs—is a specific and may be relied upon to restore women to a healthy normal condition.

PALM BEACH SUIT TIME

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods, rubbing on useless "flesh cream," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot put fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This new discovery, called Sargol, is the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol almost through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the bloodstream where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, how about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. It is sold by Dr. J. C. Waco, Texas, and other leading druggists of Waco and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in the most nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

DR. RUCKER TELLS OF RAVAGES OF PLAGUE

ASSISTANT SURGEON GENERAL
ADDRESSES FORT WORTH
MEETINGS.

MENACE TO THE UNITED STATES

Subonic Follows Main Traveled Roads and Goes Frequently by Water.

Fort Worth, May 3.—Dr. W. C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general of the public health service, before the State Medical association here today told of the world-wide ramifications of bubonic plague and its menace to the United States. The plague, he said, followed main-traveled roads, spreads along less beaten paths to the remote ends of the earth and goes from one country to another more frequently by water than by land.

"Taking the Hawaiian islands, where plague was found last August, as a central point," Dr. Rucker continued, "plague exists in Seattle, 2409 miles away; in California, 2091 miles distant; in Yokohama, 3445 miles away; in Hongkong, 4857 miles away, and in Shanghai, a little over 5000 miles distant. Thus our entire Pacific coast is threatened by plague from the Orient. The Pacific coast is also menaced by the disease in Ecuador and Peru, a little over four thousand miles away from San Francisco.

"The entire gulf coast is menaced by plague in Havana, 569 miles from Galveston, 601 miles from New Orleans, 324 miles from Tampa, and 92 miles from Key West. The disease was found among rats in New Orleans no longer than March 9, 1915. On account of the chaos in Mexico, it is impossible to state whether plague exists in her gulf ports.

"The Atlantic coast is not only threatened with importation of plague from the eastern coast of South America, but from European, African and Asiatic ports. Less than five thousand miles from New York plague is found in Brazil, at Pernambuco, Bahia and Rio de Janeiro. In the Mediterranean littoral, plague is found in Tripoli, Greece, Egypt and at Port Said, one of the world's gateways. Practically all of the great ports of British India except Calcutta are infected. Rangoon, Madras, Colombo, Bombay and Karachi report its presence and from Karachi it has extended up into the Persian gulf. Singapore, Surabaya, Mauritius, Zanzibar, Queenstown in South Africa, and Dakar in Senegal, all have plague. Directly or indirectly our country is in commercial communication with all of the infected places mentioned. It must be admitted that as plague is a disease of rodents which travel around the world in ships, the United States must consider herself as seriously menaced by bubonic plague."

Dr. Rucker contended that there was no reason to believe the disease does not exist in other ports and that the search for it had been either neglected or half-heartedly conducted. That, he said, applies to the United States as well as to other countries.

As to prevention, he said, the first line of defense against the quarantine, which might prove a disastrous interference with commerce and "at best a makeshift"; second, rat guards and other measures at the wharves to prevent embarkation or disembarkation of rats; third, immunization of human beings, "a weak road to lean upon"; and fourth, the only reliable defense, rat-proofing man's working and living environment. He said no modern city could regard rat-proofing as a luxury. Rat-proof cities and occupants of rat-proof premises need have no fear of the plague, he said.

But Miss Ayres Got a "Beautiful Complexion" at a Cost of Only $2.00.

Nov. 23, 1914.—"All my life my face was covered completely with a mass of pimples, blackheads and blotches. I spent a lot of money on numerous remedies and treatments without success and no relief at all. I tried so many things that I was afraid my case could not be cured. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap seemed to do me good right from the first. I used two jars of Resinol Ointment and one jar of Resinol Soap, the total cost being only $2.00, and this completely cured my case. My skin is without a blemish and I am the possessor of a beautiful complexion." (Signed) Mabel Ayres, Stone Mountain, Va. Every druggist sells Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment.

W. W. Woodson Addresses Association on Preachers' Relation to the Business World.

Sunday observance by the church people of Waco will be urged on the third Sunday in May by all of the Protestant pastors of the city. The City Federation of Missionary societies last week passed a resolution favoring the buying of ice, groceries and as many other articles as possible that are needed for Sunday on Saturday.

A good representative crowd was present to hear the address on "The Preachers' Relation to the Business World," delivered by W. W. Woodson, cashier of the Central Texas Exchange National bank. He divided his subject into three main heads and discussed the relation from business, political and religious standpoints. The point was brought out that relationship was closer on account of the social work being now carried on by every one for the uplift and help to the fallen and the lower class of society, and that this point in common was the means of broadening the work of the preacher and assisting him to get into a closer relationship with the unsaved people who really have the betterment of the world at heart.

The preacher could do a great work in the outside world also and in combining the two the scope was unlimited. However, Mr. Woodson said he did not think that the preacher had any time to spare, or that he had any business in mingling in the political and business world and that if he did the business world and that if he was successful in the work in which he was called he would not have any inclination.

After the address a committee was appointed to take up the matter of the Sunday observance movement recently inaugurated by the Federation of Women's Missionary societies, and to work in co-operation with the movement. The committee suggested setting aside one Sunday for all preachers to use the subject in their regular service. It was decided to dedicate the third Sunday in May for the purpose, and all pastors are requested to urge the observance of Sunday by their congregations by buying all their ice, meat and other things that they have been in the habit of getting Sundays on Saturday night so as to give the rest that is needed to the delivery people and clerks.

BAYLOR DEBATERS TAKE SECOND FROM MERCER UNIVERSITY

Macon, Ga., May 3.—Baylor university, Waco, took the first of a series of three debates with Mercer university here tonight by winning a unanimous decision over the local team.

The visitors, represented by Dixie C. Hobbs and J. W. Smith, championed the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, That a national board of arbitration with compulsory powers should be established to settle disputes between labor and capital, constitutionally conceded."

Both sides put up strong arguments, but in the opinion of the judges the greater merit lay in the contention of the Texans. The visiting debaters were accompanied by Earl C. Hankamer, committeeman.

Next year's contest will be held at Waco and the final debate will be held at some neutral point yet to be determined.

Midsummer Season in Ready-to-Wear and Millinery Opens

Beautiful Display of Latest Garments and Hats at Goldstein-
Migel Company.

The midsummer season in women's ready-to-wear and millinery was inaugurated yesterday at the Goldstein-Migel company with a wonderfully beautiful and lavish opening display, which continues today. The entire third floor is a beautiful vision of white and green, with here and there a brilliant touch of color that gives variety to the scene. Pretty baskets of roses and other beautiful blooms hang from the ceilings, and on every hand are vases and baskets containing cut flowers or potted plants. The main promenade in the ready-to-wear section is occupied by a lavish display of charming white dresses, while in the rear sections of this floor mountains of snowy undermuslins greet the eye.

The millinery section is lavishly decorated with flowers and plants, the beauty of which is scarcely equal, however, to the fascinating charms of the new midsummer hats.

To enhance still further the attractiveness of the scene, all the ladies employed on the third floor, even down to the little cash girls, were dressed in dainty white frocks.

Large crowds attended this beautiful exhibit of summer fashions, and many indeed were the exclamations of delight and the words of praise that were heard on every hand. Members of the Goldstein-Migel firm were very happy yesterday over the splendid success of the opening display, and at the closing of the store yesterday evening a delegation of the salesladies from the ready-to-wear, shirtwaist and millinery departments called on the firm with a unanimous expression of enthusiasm, stating that they had heard nothing but favorable comment all day long from visitors.

This fascinating display will continue today, it is announced.

WACAPLES

Those who see Charles Chaplin in his newest comedy, "By the Sea," at the Hippodrome today for the last time here, will see the king of comedians in the many characteristic eccentricities that have made him famous as a funny man. Though he injects many situations in each new picture, the makeup, mannerisms, etc., remain the same as formerly. The latter includes the funny Chaplin world, the Chaplin moustache, the Chaplin gestures, and the hat and cane.

There is a late fad spreading all over the United States. It is the funny little Chaplin moustache. This moustache is invariably worn by Charles Chaplin in all his comedies. It is one that he originated and it is nearly as wide as it is deep. The lip on either side is shaved so that it covers only about one-half of the mouth. Scores of photography enthusiasts have sent their photographs to Essanay to show themselves in the new moustaches.

Pawns of Mars.
Charles Kent, Dorothy Kelley and James Morrison appear on the program with Charles Chaplin in "By the Sea" at the Hippodrome today only.

In "Pawns of Mars," three-part Vitagraph Broadway star feature which is a praiseworthy attempt at a tremendously big subject and in its bigness it pictures aeroplanes and wireless methods used in connection with modern phases of warfare. It suggests the shortest way of eliminating war.

In the story a shrewd inventor discovers a new weapon so deadly in its effects as to introduce killing on a wholesale basis. The game of slaughter becomes so terrific that no country will take part in it. How far this idea will work out in actual practice is a question yet unsolved, but in the motion picture the mythical government use the scientific possibilities of the theme.

There is plenty of dash, spirit and action of a lively sort in the play, "Pawns of Mars," and those who like unbounded thrills will heartily enjoy it. Some really fine effects are obtained with the use of a wireless telegraph instrument and an aeroplane.

George Cooper plays the part of a spy with wonderful craft and melodramatic power. Dorothy Kelley is pretty and enticingly pathetic and sympathetic by turns. Charles Kent and James Morrison score another triumph in their respective roles.

QUEEN.
Lois Meredith in "Help Wanted."

Large crowds at the Queen yesterday were pleased with "Help Wanted," the feature photoplay production of the Oliver Morosco company, and still larger crowds are expected for today. Miss Lois Meredith has won a place in the hearts of Waco theatregoers that it will be hard to dislodge and she takes the part of Gertrude Myers.

The story of the play follows: Gerald Scott, senior member of the firm of Scott & Son, employs Gertrude Myers as a stenographer. Though incompetent to handle her work, Scott Sr. is captivated by her good looks and pays more money than she requests.

Jack Scott, step-son and junior partner, is putting in his first day learning the details of the business. He meets Gertrude and is immediately attracted to her. In the course of the month that follows the elder Scott has taken his new stenographer to luncheon many times, in each instance endeavoring to force his attentions upon her and each time she resents them.

In the meantime Jack's friendly interest has ripened into love and he has declared himself. The day following his proposal Gertrude is kept at the office later than usual. Jack, not finding her at her home goes to the office, and finding the inner door locked, smashes the glass upon hearing screams for help, and rescues Gertrude from his step-father's attempted embrace.

Scott, Sr., in his anger at being thwarted, and not knowing the situation between the two young folks, turns to the door bearing the name "Scott & Son" and with his walking stick breaks that part reading "& Son," declaring Jack is no longer a member of the firm.

The scene then shifts to the Scott home, where a reconciliation is finally effected after explanations are made by Jack as to his honorable intentions towards Gertrude.

GENE MOORE HOPS SKIPPERS HELPLESS

NAVIGATORS HAVE DECIDEDLY AN OFF DAY IN EVERY WAY.

ERRORS FIGURE BIG SCORE

Visitors Take Second Game 7 to 0.
The Pirates Made Runs at Will.

Whatever so-called experts, psychologists, dops or others of the human king would say who reason and explain the cause and results for every happening under the sun from where the flies go in the winter, to sun spots, a ball team has its off days. Why ball clubs should have off days has never been decided unanimously and never will, but when a club has a particularly aggravated case of off day even if the club has a contender for the sixty per cent of the world's series any good, well balanced high school team could make a lot of prairie dogs in a Louisiana swamp. Just how bad a colony of prairie dogs would look in a Louisiana swamp, nobody can say—it never has happened—but the Navigators looked worse yesterday.

The bunch went onto the field looking like the usual classy, hard playing aggregation that without a disaster will be at the top on Labor Day, but before more than a few minutes had gone by they were as lively as wet tissue paper. One Gene Moore, left handed, was pounded hard and Markle, who followed him, although showing great class as a rule, was wild. Moore got errorless support, while the Skippers misused three times.

It wasn't that the Navigators played such a poor game as it was a matter of helplessness. A prairie dog, up against a Louisiana swamp probably wouldn't pull a bone. About the only one he could pull would be to dig a hole and thereby drown himself. The Nave didn't pull bad stuff, they simply were unable to pull anything. In the first inning after being reeled by, with Moore shoving the ball across with more stuff than a twenty-centimeter gun, Watson, for Waxahachie College is Very Wild and Gives Eight Walks in the Game.

It's a mighty short way to pipe-joy

if you go via Prince Albert—tobacco that answers every question any man can hand out! You can jam it in your old jimmy pipe or roll it into a makin's cigarette and it will produce more real and true happiness than any brand at any price you ever bucked up against. Now, let's all get together, and repeat slowly and distinctly:

PRINCE ALBERT

can't bite your tongue, and can't parch your throat, because it is made by a patented process that removes the bite and the parch. No other tobacco ever was or can be made like P. A. And P. A. tastes as good as that sounds!

So the warm tip is: Get the jimmy pipes out of dark corners, out of the rafters, where you've hidden them for fear of more tongue bites. Get 'em out and fire up with P. A., for you can go to it fancy-free from sun-up right down the line to the pillow-period!

And the sooner you know this little thing personally, the more joy's you'll be.

Prince Albert is sold everywhere in topky red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; pound and half-pound tin humidors—and that classy pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that just beats the band for keeping P. A. fine like silk. You buy one quick.

LABOR LEADER IS SENTENCED FOR LIFE

JOHN R. LAWSON MUST DO HARD LABOR FOR REMAINDER OF HIS DAYS.

Trinidad, Colo., May 3.—John R. Lawson, labor leader, today was condemned to spend the remainder of his life at hard labor in the Colorado penitentiary. He was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the death of John Nimmo, a deputy sheriff killed in a strike battle October 25, 1913. Under the Colorado statute making it the duty of the jury to fix the penalty at death or life imprisonment, the jury in the district court fixed the milder punishment.

Thirty days were given to file a motion for a new trial and Lawson was released temporarily in custody of his counsel.

Seated at his lawyer's table after the verdict, John R. Lawson talked calmly of the outcome of his fight for life and liberty.

Judge Hillier later announced that the labor leader would be released on $20,000 bond pending action on his motion for a new trial. The new bond was arranged.

Commenting on the verdict Lawson said: "They may get me, but they can't defeat the cause of labor. I'm not worried about myself—it's the fight I have been making for the working men that I am interested in—and that will go ahead just as before. Even for me it's a long way to the penitentiary. My attorneys will not give up until everything possible has been done to save me."

Later Attorney Hawkins issued an additional statement in which he said: "Rockefeller's gold is claiming J. R. Lawson, a labor leader, as a victim. Rockefeller's lawyers worked up the evidence and Rockefeller's detectives testified in the case to secure conviction. The verdict is an unspeakable outrage. In any other community an acquittal would have been had in five minutes. The conviction is stirring the nation, telegrams are pouring in on us from all over the country and the beginning is not yet."

Attorney General in Comment.
Denver, Colo., May 3.—Fred Farrar, attorney general of Colorado, commenting upon the conviction of John R. Lawson, said:

"The prosecution of Lawson was conducted solely by the attorney general's office. I think this is the first case on record where one of the leaders of a union has been convicted of crimes of violence arising from the conduct of a strike. Of course there was the McNamara case but the prosecution there was based upon a confession. The Lawson case was not. This I think should indicate to the world that Colorado is still capable of self-government through recourse to the courts."

FLOWER SHOWER GIVEN AT BELL HIGH SCHOOL

PRINCIPAL J. WILLIAM SMITH IS PLEASANTLY SURPRISED BY TEACHERS AND PUPILS.

Photograph Is Taken of Large Collection of Blossoms Which Are Distributed to Sick.

Beautiful spring blossoms in great profusion made the air sweet with their fragrance in Prof. J. William Smith's recitation room at the Bell's Hill school yesterday morning. And all as the result of a "flower shower" for Mr. Smith, principal of the school. The teachers held a short meeting Friday afternoon and decided to surprise Mr. Smith yesterday morning. They asked each child to bring at least one flower. The pupils in the higher rooms made some beautiful floral pieces. The year, "1915," was made in numerals of yellow, pink, white and red roses, respectively. And the principal's name, "J. William Smith," was spelled out in its entirety in beautiful flowers.

When school was called to order yesterday morning, one of the teachers asked Mr. Smith to step into his recitation room for a moment. This was the signal, and as she was talking to him, the tiny tots from the first grade came marching up, each with a flower in his or her chubby hand. They placed the blossoms on a desk, covering it completely. Mr. Smith was just turning to thank the teacher, when the second grade marched in.

Room by room they came, until every desk was covered with the flowers. Some brought American beauty roses, some only wild flowers, but every child brought at least one blossom.

A little boy who was sick in bed sent word that he was sorry he could not come and sent his flower by his brother. Mr. Smith broke down and tears streamed from his eyes. He had a photograph taken of the beautiful scene.

Just before school closed last evening, he sent word around to the different rooms that he wanted to send flowers to all the sick in the neighborhood and many of the boys and girls remained to take big bouquets to sufferers who were confined to their homes.

The Bell's Hill school has several unusual features. For instance, the children that are underfed are given buttermilk, bread and fruit for their noonday lunch. The janitor is also a barber and none of the boys have shaggy heads, for he cuts their hair for them. Neither do any of them have dirty heads, for if the teacher notices anything out of the way, the boy or girl is taken on a visit to the basement, where the head is given a thorough washing. To the credit of the school, however, it must be said that the head washings are few and far between.

In Mr. Smith's office are pictures of Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis. In the near future, he expects to add the picture of Prof. J. C. Lattimore to the collection.

Texas National Guard May Have Support of U. S. Government

San Antonio, Tex., May 3.—The war department has threatened to withdraw support from the Texas National guard because of the alleged sale of condemned equipment to Mexican revolutionists. It was learned here tonight, with the arrival of Adjutant General Henry Hutchings of Texas, who said he came to confer with Major General Funston on the matter.

That more than $50,000 worth of equipment, including uniforms, tentage, etc., which had been condemned and ordered destroyed, was sold to Mexican revolutionists is not denied, but it is claimed those responsible for these offenses are no longer in the service of the national guard nor are they residents of Texas. Gen. Frederick Funston, commander of the southern department, has been delegated by the war department to represent the government in the hearing of the case and upon his report will depend what action the war department will take in the matter. Adjutant General Henry Hutchings of the Texas national guard arrived here this evening for conference with General Funston. The war department sets forth that the property was sold and that false affidavits were filed showing that the property had been destroyed.

DEATHS

Mrs. Mary Helen Smith Dies.
Mrs. Mary Helen Smith, 26 years old, wife of Bud Smith, died at 8 o'clock last night at the family residence, 2012 Gorman street. Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, one child, two sisters and three brothers. Interment will be at Oaklawn at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. O. E. Brown, of the Clay street Baptist church, officiating.

Mandamus Action Filed.
Mandamus proceedings were filed yesterday in the Nineteenth district court by G. A. Stanfield et al, demanding that County Judge Geo. N. Denton and the county commissioners declare Stanfield elected trustee of the First school. If Mr. Stanfield is successful in his proceedings, the result will be that the First school will remain at Lacy Summit, where it has been for the past fifteen years, instead of being moved to Lakeview. It was voted by the trustees several months ago. The petition filed yesterday alleges that one Stanfield voted illegally thrown out in the count of the ballot, and that Stanfield should be declared elected by a majority of one. If the court sustains this point the board will be changed from a solid Lakeview board to a 2 to 1 Lacy Summit board.

Negro Dies of Heart Trouble.
Justice Padgett held an inquest Sunday night over the body of George Elder, a negro, who died suddenly in a house at the rear of the residence of E. Schwartz, 1405 South Third street. The negro was baptized Sunday afternoon in Waco creek, and became unconscious after reaching the city. He was taken home and died shortly after. County Physician R. McCormick expressed the opinion that heart trouble was the cause of death.

U. S. WILL DEFER REPRESENTATIONS IN GULFLIGHT MATTER

have jumped from the vessel after she was struck.

Short's home address, according to the company's records, was 708 West 103rd street, Chicago. He was taken aboard the Gulfight at New Orleans April 7. This was his first trip aboard the vessel. Chapana joined at Port Arthur. Including her officers, the Gulfight had thirty-eight men aboard, most of them hailing from Gulf of Mexico ports. Ship and cargo, according to James Kennedy, marine superintendent of the company, were valued at $1,000,000. Mr. Kennedy said he was waiting further advice giving full particulars of the attack on the Gulfight before communicating with the state department. A claim for the loss sustained, including damages for the lives lost, undoubtedly will be filed with the state department, he thought.

The Gulfight's cargo, Mr. Kennedy said, consisted of gasoline and oil in bulk and in cases. It was consigned to firms doing business in France and not to the French government, he asserted.

Captain Gunther was 52 years old. Early in the year he took a cargo of cotton into Bremen aboard the Gulfight. In January of last year he was in command of the steamer Oklahoma, which broke in two in a gale off the New Jersey coast and was rescued with seven of his crew by the steamer Bavaria.

Cargo Not Damaged.

London, May 3.—A dispatch to Lloyd's from Seilly says the Gulfight, which is anchored in Crow Sound, has no list, but is down by the bows, so that forward the free board is not more than two feet. The forehold is full of water and the propeller blades are eighteen inches above the water. Apparently the torpedo struck forward about the bluff of the bow, a foot below the load water line. Apparently, the cargo has not been damaged.

Many False Alarms.

Visiting firemen kept the local boys on the hop throughout the first part of the night. No less than a dozen false alarms were turned in from various boxes in the business district of the city. Some on pulled the box directly opposite the Central station, and another joker pulled the box at Eighth and Mary just behind Chief Bauerle's, who was passing the box at the time. Some of the apparatus responded to the first alarms, but the local fireboys soon got on to the game of their comrades, and then the alarms ceased.

This property levied upon, as the property of James N. LeMond, Chas. S. Eichelberger, Jr., F. L. Christman, C. E. Moncrief, L. A. Demmer and S. A. True Heroism.

He had been courting the girl for a long time. It happened on Sunday night, after church. They were sitting on the sofa, and she looked with ineffable tenderness into his noble, blue eyes.

"Tom," she murmured, "didn't you tell me once you were willing to do any act of heroism for my sake?"

"Yes, Mary, I would gladly reiterate that statement now," he replied. "No Roman of old, however brave, was ever fired with a loftier ambition, a braver resolution than I."

"Well, Tom, I want you to do something really heroic for me."

"Speak, darling, what is it?"

"Ask me to be your wife. We've been fooling long enough."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Fireman on Ladder Attracts Attention at Sanger Bros.

Sanger Brothers' decorating department has executed another very clever idea in connection with the exterior decorations of the store and especially erected for the Texas Firemen's convention now in session in this city. A large extension ladder has been erected from the awning directly in front of the Austin avenue entrance to the store and about half way up is a fireman in regulation fire-fighting uniform, including boots, rubber coat and helmet. It is a most unique decorative stunt and is attracting a great deal of attention from the visiting firemen as well as local people.

Ammons Fire Alarm To Be Demonstrated Wednesday Afternoon

Rev. Evander Ammons, for several years pastor of the East Waco Baptist church of this city, and now of the Baptist Tabernacle, Houston, is in the city with his brother, J. B. Ammons of Houston, for the purpose of demonstrating the Ammons automatic fire alarm, which the latter has invented and which he is preparing to manufacture and place on the market. For this purpose a company with a capital of $100,000 was chartered at Austin a few days ago. Taking advantage of the presence in Waco this week of the volunteer firemen of the state, these men have arranged to demonstrate the new invention at the Central fire station on Washington street, between Third and Fourth, at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. City officials and many other prominent persons of Houston who have seen the instrument tested have given the promoter strong letters of approval.

W. V. CRAWFORD NEW MANON PALACE BOARD

ALSO APPOINTED PUBLICITY SUPERINTENDENT FOR COMING EXPOSITION.

APPROPRIATIONS ARE REDUCED

I. Friedlander in Charge of Shows Exhibits and Concessions This Year.

Appropriations for several of the departments of the Cotton Palace were made at the meeting of the directors held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night. W. V. Crawford was elected a director to succeed H. S. Forman, whose resignation was accepted. Mr. Crawford had been previously elected director of publicity for the association.

W. V. Crawford, John F. Wright, I. Friedlander and W. H. Hoffmann were appointed as the committee from the Cotton Palace directors to work with the Y. M. B. L. committees in raising the guarantees for the operating expenses of the exposition for the present year. This committee will meet with the Y. M. B. L. committees tonight, when plans for the campaign will be worked out and the time set for beginning.

A new feature of the Cotton Palace baby show was added by the directors last night, when C. H. Cox asked an appropriation for a better baby show to be held in addition to the beauty show. The McLennan County Medical society in session in the next room immediately passed a resolution offering the services of physicians of the city as judges in the show.

Appropriations for the different departments as made are all under those of last year, each department evidencing a disposition to cut its estimates according to the general desire of the directorate to save money on the operating expenses of the show this year.

Commencing work on straightening the course of Waco creek through the exposition grounds was postponed until after the campaign for raising guarantees.

Supervision of shows and concessions committee, of which I. Friedlander is chairman. Lines are out to secure some of the best carnival shows of the country for the Warpath this year.

Director Friedlander proposed that the main building and the machinery hall be connected by a pergola. He said that this would make the north end of the main building a better location for exhibit spaces, in addition to affording an ornamental passageway between the two buildings. The proposal was referred to the building committee.

Director Crawford presented his general plans for the publicity of the exposition. He said that he favored a shorter and more intense publicity campaign than had been used in previous years. Mr. Crawford's plans were approved by the directors. Mr. Crawford is one of the best known publicity men in the state, and his selection by the directors as publicity director for the exposition is considered a wise move.

A meeting of the agricultural and livestock committee will be held Saturday afternoon, at which time plans for this department will be discussed. The committee is composed of T. C. Westbrook, J. L. Quicksall, John Gorman of Bosqueville and Joe Cavett of McGregor.

Next Monday will be Big Brothers' Day and the various members who have adopted working boys of the city as little brothers are expected to have those boys to lunch with them at the club on this occasion. Any Rotarian who has no little brother but would like to have one for this day can have one supplied by communicating with Dr. E. E. Ingram, county probation officer, or Frank E. Burkhalter of the Working Boys' club.

Henry Bell will be toastmaster next Monday, W. T. Lockwood will be the principal speaker, while the special program committee consists of J. M. Penland and Sol Hirschberg.
